Quick Advisor Facts:

Student cohorts are groups of students created either manually or automatically (using specific criteria). Student Cohorts are used for three purposes in UR student:

- To connect advisors to their assigned advisees and afford them access to advisees' student records
- To create groups of students for transactional purposes (e.g., registration appointments, enforcing enrollment limits)
- To apply an attribute to a group of students for which there is no field in the system (e.g., class year, special populations)

Students can use the academic planning tool in UR Student to plan their courses. Students can create and save multiple schedules and register for their courses from these saved schedules. Advisors can view their advisees' academic plans, allowing for their one-on-one advising interactions to be more focused and efficient.

Advisors can add advisor notes and view notes recorded by other advisors for their advisees.
